

YELLOW JACK IN BROOKLYN.

THE PATIENT REMOVED LAST NIGHT TO QUARANTINE.

Dr. Robert to be arrested for not reporting the case until he feared his patient was going to die. The sick man arrived on the boat at 10 o'clock.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

Dr. J. S. Young, Deputy Health Commissioner, on Monday, at a late hour, was notified by telephone that a patient named Dr. Robert was attending a patient named Dr. W. H. Dunham, surgeon of the steamship Colon, since Friday at 174 Hancock street.

THE HIBERNIAN CASE DECIDED.

A Suit Growing Out of a Split in the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

FALL RIVER, June 19.—The suit of Neil McLaughlin, John Stanton, and four others against John Stanton and four others, still in equity, commonly known as the "Hibernian" case, was heard before Judge Thompson in the Superior Court today.

The case grew out of a split in the Ancient Order of Hibernians, there being two boards, one known as the American Board following the Cleveland Convention of 1884, and the other known as the Board of Erin, following the Convention in New York some time in 1884.

Plaintiffs claim that the division in this city had seceded from the order, inasmuch as they refused to be bound by the rules prepared by the Cleveland Convention. Defendants claim that they were following the parent body, which was the Board of Erin, and that the Cleveland Convention and the Board of Erin were seceded from the order, and could not be recognized.

Judge Thompson, among other things, found that by the acts of the parties engaged in the suit, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, as a body, had seceded from the order, and that the plaintiffs and defendants were entitled to possession of the property and funds belonging to the order, and that the order was dissolved.

Plaintiffs claim that the division in this city had seceded from the order, inasmuch as they refused to be bound by the rules prepared by the Cleveland Convention. Defendants claim that they were following the parent body, which was the Board of Erin, and that the Cleveland Convention and the Board of Erin were seceded from the order, and could not be recognized.

Judge Thompson, among other things, found that by the acts of the parties engaged in the suit, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, as a body, had seceded from the order, and that the plaintiffs and defendants were entitled to possession of the property and funds belonging to the order, and that the order was dissolved.

Plaintiffs claim that the division in this city had seceded from the order, inasmuch as they refused to be bound by the rules prepared by the Cleveland Convention. Defendants claim that they were following the parent body, which was the Board of Erin, and that the Cleveland Convention and the Board of Erin were seceded from the order, and could not be recognized.

MARTIN BURKE INDICTED.

THE GRAND JURY CHARGES HIM WITH THE MURDER OF CROSBY.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The first thing the Grand Jury did to-day was to indict Martin Burke, the Winnipeg suspect. This is the only tangible work the grand jury have yet done. It is not expected that the Grand Jury will finish its investigation before noon to-morrow.

Among the many telegrams which Alexander Sullivan received during March and April were twenty in cipher. Some of them came from New York. The rest were of a strictly business character, and the Grand Jury paid little attention to them. The cipher messages were held in the hope that the key might be found.

Persons who saw Burke admitted large sums of money, which he spending he had not earned, are still telling their stories to the police. The detectives have learned that about May 1 Burke secured a pair of old trousers which he had worn for months for a new and better suit. Mrs. Sullivan, who was a member of the Chicago Police, and who had seen Burke, told the police that he had a pair of old trousers which he had worn for months for a new and better suit.

When he left the city Burke donned a new suit of clothes which he procured from some unknown source. He also took away with him all his shirts and underclothing.

Burke's identification by Expressman Mortensen as the man who hired him to carry the furniture to the Carson cottage was confirmed to-day in the Grand Jury room, where he saw a photograph of Burke. To-night Mortensen left for Winnipeg in charge of a Scandinavian policeman to further identify him for the satisfaction of the Manitoba authorities.

The rumor that Leeman Sullivan had confessed to the murder of Crosby, which had been given no intimation of a confession, Chief Hubbard said to-night that the prisoner had given no intimation of a confession.

The indictment found to-day was against Burke, who is charged with the murder of Crosby. The indictment was returned by the Grand Jury, and it is expected that the trial will begin to-morrow.

NORE BEAR DAMS.

Water That May Sweep Down the Never-Ending and Headlong Valleys.

MIDDLERTOWN, N. Y., June 19.—In view of the recent dreadful destruction of life and property in the Conemaugh valley, great alarm is being felt here, and the people are watching the water in the Conemaugh valley with great interest.

The reservoirs are known as Yankee Pond and Cape Pond, both situated away on among the heights of the Shawangunk Mountains, and both enlarged from comparatively small lakes into immense bodies of water by the process of building dams across mountain gorges at their respective outlets. Yankee Pond, which is the larger of the two, is situated on the north side of the Shawangunk Mountains, and is about four miles long and one mile wide.

The reservoirs are known as Yankee Pond and Cape Pond, both situated away on among the heights of the Shawangunk Mountains, and both enlarged from comparatively small lakes into immense bodies of water by the process of building dams across mountain gorges at their respective outlets.

The reservoirs are known as Yankee Pond and Cape Pond, both situated away on among the heights of the Shawangunk Mountains, and both enlarged from comparatively small lakes into immense bodies of water by the process of building dams across mountain gorges at their respective outlets.

The reservoirs are known as Yankee Pond and Cape Pond, both situated away on among the heights of the Shawangunk Mountains, and both enlarged from comparatively small lakes into immense bodies of water by the process of building dams across mountain gorges at their respective outlets.

The reservoirs are known as Yankee Pond and Cape Pond, both situated away on among the heights of the Shawangunk Mountains, and both enlarged from comparatively small lakes into immense bodies of water by the process of building dams across mountain gorges at their respective outlets.

The reservoirs are known as Yankee Pond and Cape Pond, both situated away on among the heights of the Shawangunk Mountains, and both enlarged from comparatively small lakes into immense bodies of water by the process of building dams across mountain gorges at their respective outlets.

DR. DOWNIE RESPONSIBLE.

HE PLACED POISON WITHIN HIS SICK WIFE'S REACH.

Are you the Dead Woman's Stomach? She Was a Married Woman and Elope With the Doctor from Scotland.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street. She complained that her husband had beaten her, and she was taken so ill that she was removed to the hospital two days afterward. The symptoms pointed to arsenic poisoning. She died without making any statement to the Coroner, but two days preceding her death she told one of the doctors that while sick at the house, before her removal to the hospital, she had taken some stuff which her husband had left on the table in a bowl, and that it had made her very sick.

Mrs. Zelnoff testified that when Dr. Downie called on her, he had a bottle of medicine with him, and that he had given her some of it. She said that she had taken it, and that it had made her very sick. She also testified that she had seen Dr. Downie's wife, and that she had seen her take some of the medicine which Dr. Downie had given her.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

TEMPERED A MAD DOG.

The Route Hit Him as He Desired and the Man to Now Trying a Mad Dog.

SIDELINE, Mo., June 19.—The offer of Dr. F. M. Smith of this city to give $500 to any one who would be bitten by a rabid dog of his, while not intended as a bona fide offer, has attracted more attention than the Doctor anticipated. He has had applications from several men by mail and in person to accept the proposition, but to all of them the Doctor replied that the offer was a joke, and that he would not stand by it.

One man, however, a stranger in the city from Arkansas, who refused to give his name, was not to be put off in this way. He gained access to the place where the rabid dog was held, and he was bitten. He was taken to the hospital, and he died in convulsions fifteen minutes later. The man applied a mustard to the wound, and is still alive and well, but apprehensions are felt for his future. It is thought the man's mind is affected.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

The inquest in the case of Mrs. Jessie Downie, who died two weeks ago at the City Hospital in Brooklyn from the effects of poisoning, and whose husband, Dr. James Downie, was arrested on suspicion, was held last night by Coroner Rooney. These facts were developed: On June 1 Dr. Downie and his wife quarreled, and the latter, with her two children, went to the house of Mrs. Harriet E. Zelnoff, with whom she had long been acquainted for some time at 37 Hicks street.

LIFE IN THE METROPOLIS.

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY THE SUN'S UBIQUITOUS REPORTERS.

It Was a Very Careless Boy Who Let the Baby Roll from the Pier into the River, But a Brave Boy Who Rescued It.

Although only 12 years old, Thomas Kelly is a tall, strongly built boy, and he has as much presence of mind as a man of three times his years. He attends Grammar School 59, in East 125th street, and is in Miss Stern's class in the sixth grade. He lives with his parents at 538 East 115th street, and when he isn't at school or running errands, is around the engine house in the neighborhood with his friends the firemen.

On Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock Thomas was at the foot of East 125th street with some other boys distributing circulars announcing to-day's excursion of the Veteran Firemen's Association, Council No. 1. There were many persons on the pier, which is a resort for the people of the neighborhood in warm weather. Some were watching the departure of the boat to the House of Refuge, and others were waiting for the return of the steamer Grand Republic with the excursion of the 118th street Protestant Church. Among the latter was a young boy in a carriage and a very lively, good natured fellow.

The island boat had a no only a short distance when this boy, who was looking in another direction, permitted the carriage to roll down the incline of the boat landing into the river. The carriage turned a somersault and was hurled into the water with the wheels in the air. There was a panic at the sight. The boys who were on the pier shouted and ran toward the edge of the pier, but Thomas was not so much alarmed. He saw the baby in the carriage, and he saw that it was still alive. He saw that it was a girl, and he saw that it was a very pretty girl.

Thomas, grown desperate, twisted his legs around one of the upright logs and outstretched his arms. He saw that the carriage was still in the water, and he saw that the baby was still in the carriage. He saw that the baby was still alive, and he saw that it was a very pretty girl.

Thomas, grown desperate, twisted his legs around one of the upright logs and outstretched his arms. He saw that the carriage was still in the water, and he saw that the baby was still in the carriage. He saw that the baby was still alive, and he saw that it was a very pretty girl.

Thomas, grown desperate, twisted his legs around one of the upright logs and outstretched his arms. He saw that the carriage was still in the water, and he saw that the baby was still in the carriage. He saw that the baby was still alive, and he saw that it was a very pretty girl.